Supporting Slum Communities

Welcome to the Annual Report of Angaja Foundation for the Year 2023.
As we look back on our journey, we are filled with immense gratitude for our community, donors, and partners who make our grassroots mission possible every single day. At Angaja Foundation, our philosophy is rooted in holistic compassion, driven by the belief that a truly harmonious society must care for its most vulnerable people, its animals, and the environment alike.

We also work deep within urban slum clusters to break the cycle of poverty through education, running active learning centres and remedial classes that give underprivileged children access to quality foundational schooling and safe spaces. Our Team conducts regular outreach in slums communities identifying families in need and connecting them with essential government schemes and welfare services. We believe true development is impossible without gender equity, which is why Angaja Foundation actively champions women's empowerment through community workshops and high-visibility public rallies that advocate for social rights, legal literacy, and independence. While we celebrate these meaningful milestones, we remain keenly aware of the vast work that lies ahead.
The progress we have made does not signal a time to rest, but rather provides a stronger foundation upon which we can expand our shelters, reach more classrooms, and amplify our advocacy.

We extend our deepest thanks to our staff, advisors, and corporate partners; your trust is our greatest asset, and together, we will continue to nurture hope, protect life, and build a Society based on compassion

Happy Raksha Bandhan

Angaja Foundation celebrated Raksha Bandhan at Mansarovar Park on 23 of August 2023. All the children were very excited. The foundation's coordinators explained to the children the meaning and traditions associated with this festival. On Rakhi Day, families prepare delicious dishes and sweets, and get together. But the main event of this festival: sisters are tying beautiful rakhis on the hands of their brothers. The sisters prepare the puja on a special - thali. It includes threads, rakhis, tilak powder, rice grains, incense, and sweets. First, rituals are performed for the family deities, after which the sisters do arti in front of their brothers, offering treats to them, placing tilak, and, finally, tying the rakhi on their wrists. Traditionally, homemade "Raksha" laces are used, which the girls lovingly tie around the brother's wrists. The action is accompanied by wishes of good luck, health, and prosperity. It is believed that this rite will bring protection to a man and make him strong. In turn, the brothers undertake to take care of their sisters, help them in every possible way, and protect them from evil. There are different stories about how Raksha Bandhan originated . One story is taken from the Indian epic Mahabharata. Lord Krishna (an incarnation of god Vishnu) had cut his finger, so Draupadi, his cousin, tears off a strip from her sari to bandage the wound.
After that, Krishna promises to return the favor to her. Another story is related to Lord Indra . Defeated during the war between gods and demons, he turned to his guru and adviser Brihaspati for help. Brihaspati tells him to tie a sacred thread around his wrist. Indra's wife, Indrani, tied a thread around Brihaspati's wrist and hence the gods won. Angaja Foundation distributed Rakhi to the girls and they tied the rakhis on their brothers. It was nice to see the happy faces of the boys and the girls.

Celebrating Independence Day-2023

On August 12, 2023, in the Mansoravar Park slum community, Angaja Foundation organized a meeting dedicated to the celebration of Independence Day. The celebration began with the raising of the flag and singing of the national anthem. The coordinator of the foundation told the audience about the history of Independence day, about the brave and selfless struggle of the Indian people for gaining independence from the British colonizers. On 15th August 1947, Indians got independence from British rule. The first Prime Minister of India, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru first hoisted the flag at Red Fort. Since then every year the Prime Minister of the country hoists the flag at the Red Fort and pays tribute to all the martyred freedom fighters. In continuation of the festival Program , two representatives of the community made a speech about heroes of the liberation movement and what benefits independence has brought to the citizens of India.

Angaja Foundation is orking for the welfare of animals in distress. The organization runs a shelter for the care and protection of dogs in Jaunapur, Delhi, located ahead of Andheria Mod. We rescue stray dogs from the streets, send them for sterilization, and bring animals in need to our shelter. They are cared for in a safe environment and provided with proper food, clean water, and medical treatment. There are around 50 dogs in the shelter.

We also feed cows and maintain water troughs for cows and other animals.The Foundation takes sick dogs to Pasha Veterinary Clinic in Gurgaon for treatment, which is not far from the shelter. Citizens who find injured animals and birds also contact us for help.

Our coordinators have visited many dairy farms across Delhi and NCR to assess the condition of the farms and the cattle. Many dairies do not have adequate open space for animals and do not allow cattle to move freely without being tethered. Most dairies arrange weekly veterinary check-ups for the cattle. Although a few dairies were found to be unhygienic, the animals were generally provided with proper food and drinking water.

Angaja Foundation also visits Gaushalas to ensure that cows receive proper shelter, veterinary care, food, and water. More than 50 Gaushalas have been visited by the animal project coordinator. Most Gaushalas in Delhi do not receive government funding and are run privately with support from local communities, Temples, and income generated through the sale of milk and cow dung. Lack of space remains a major challenge for many Gaushalas.We also visit stables across Delhi where horses used in weddings are kept to ensure that they receive proper food, good care, and regular health check-ups, and to confirm that they are not suffering from illnesses.

Misadventures of Jill

Jill, a four-month-old female puppy, was rescued with her mother, Bholi, and her siblings from a farm in Gurugram. She was unable to walk and showed signs of severe pain.

The New born puppies were weak and it was difficult for them to survive in the extreme cold. One puppy died because of the cold and one more died due to being injured by thorns .When Ms. Sangeeta saw them in the forest, she rescued them. Ms. Sangeeta wanted a permanent place for them so she called up Ms. Raka Sinha Bal. Sangeeta donated blankets, biscuits and water container to our shelter home.Bholi was very weak so we provided nutritious food and medicines for her. Ms. Bal made sure she got extra care while her puppies Jack, Robin and Jill happily nursed away. She healed beautifully within just a few weeks. The puppies are active and healthy and they have also been vaccinated.

Once, on a hot summer day

How do you escape the heat? Humans have come up with many ways to escape the summer heat. We use Acs, coolers and fans. But what about street animals? During the summer months, they suffer because of the over bearing heat and also a lack of water to drink With the support of the President of Angaja Foundation Raka Sinha Bal, a pool was created for our four-legged friends at the our shelter in Jaunapur. Dogs really love to take a refreshing “bath” in the pool during the hot summer months. Some of them simply enjoy sitting in the cool water, some play happily with each other (like children in the river) frolicking and splashing.

Noorie a survivor

Noorie was found lying on the doormat outside Ms. Sumedha's house, who lives in sector 65, Gurgaon. When she saw Noorie on the doormat she was filled with compassion and took her inside her house. But her husband refused to keep Noorie at their place because she already had a pet Beagle. So Sumedha requested a milkman who lives in a nearby locality. The milkman said that he can accommodate Noorie easily as he has two dogs. But unfortunately these dogs began attacking her. Noorie was not comfortable and not eating her food properly, as she was scared of these dogs. When he noticed that Noorie is not adjusting in his houses.He told Ms. Sumedha Ms. Sumedha reached the Milkman's place and brought Noorie back and called Ms Raka Sinha Bal President of Angaja foundation.Sumedha's friend Sangeeta hired a taxi for Noorie and sent her to our shelter home on 22/2/23. Persistent Ram

Ram is a six-month-old puppy that was found by a good friend of Angaja Foundation and animal lover Ms. Jasmine. It looked like the puppy had been hit by a vehicle. Miss Jasmine took care of the dog for two days until the organization staff took Ram to the shelter on May 12th 2023. Ram was a very smart, calm, and friendly dog. He turned out to be very strong in spirit. Despite the injuries, he tried to walk. On the 12th of May 2023, Ram went to the Pasha hospital, where he was inspected and an x-ray was done. Fractures were found during the examination. The veterinarian prescribed treatment and medicine .He was recovering very quickly. But suddenly one day he disappeared. Shelter workers searched the area, but unfortunately could not find Ram. We hope that he found a new home and caring owners.

Tara a needy dog

On October 14, 2023, a man named Vedpal came to the farm house from Jaunapur with a female dog, where he met Atiq Ahmed Guard and told him that he had brought a dog who needed help. The dog is partially blind, there was a wound on her back and she was so weak that she was not able to walk. She looked emaciated as if she had not eaten proper food for many days. Tara was sent to the Pasha Wing of CGS Hospital in Gurgaon There she was tested for distemper and luckily the report was normal. When her wound was examined, there were many maggots in the wound and to kill those maggots the doctors put medicines in the wound. The doctor said to bring her the next day so that the maggots could be removed after they died. The next day, Tara's maggots were removed and she was given medicine to heal her wounds.

The wound has healed but she has some neurological problems due to which she keeps circling at the same place many times, in which she falls down several times and then gets up again and starts circling again. But the staff of Angaja Foundation takes good care of her and feeds her separately. Due to her habit of circling at one place, she was again taken to the hospital and the doctor prescribed medicine for one month to improve her neurological condition.

Jackie- the crippled dog

Jackie is a two-year-old vaccinated Street dog who was living in Sector 31 Gurugram market, where Neena Bhardwaj ji used to feed him milk and biscuits during the day and chicken and rice at night. Six month back when he was on the road in front of a sweet shop, a car hit him and due to the accident one back leg was badly injured. The people in the market contacted Umeed Foundation and gave all the information about Jackie and asked them to bring an ambulance for his treatment They informed about this accident to Neena ji, When she reached there, after two hours the ambulance came and due to the delay, he lost a lot of blood. After bringing him to the clinic from the market the people of Umeed Foundation said that his leg was completely injured and it would have to be amputated. To avoid amputating, Neena ji talked to Dr. Shelly at a clinic in gurgaon, and she said that if he got proper dressing and medication, his leg could be saved. Due to the negligence of Umeed Foundation, his dressing was not done properly due to which he got gangrene. Then Neena ji talked to Aarti Bhardwaj who runs The Happy Paws Foundation, after which she took Jackie to Dr. Joshan's clinic in Sec. 22, Gurgaon. Seeing his critical condition, the doctor said his leg would have to be amputated otherwise due to gangrene, his back would be paralyzed. After amputation, he was kept in day care for two months, the expenses of which were paid by Happy Paws Foundation. After two months he was released again at the old place. Within a few days, other dogs bit his ears, after which he had to be kept in day care for a month. He was again brought back to his place but due to lack of one leg, he was dragging himself which caused injury to his body. The doctor advised that it would be necessary to keep him in a place where grass and soil were available. Neena Ji contacted Angaja Foundation President Raka Sinha Bal, on which our President with the help of Neena ji immediately called him to the farm on 9th of December 2023. Now Jackie roams around the farm, eats food and is happy and the people of the shelter take good care of him.

God saved the puppies

In response to a call from Ms. Jasmine, it was reported that a street dog near Sultanpur Farmhouses ahead of Mehrauli had given birth to five puppies. Concerns were raised about their safety due to the proximity of the location to vehicular traffic. Consequently, the staff at Angaja Foundation intervened to rescue and provide proper care for the puppies. The puppies were brought to the Angaja Foundation's Farmhouse on 8 Dec 2023.Upon receiving the distress call, the team from Angaja Foundation promptly rescued the five puppies from the precarious environment near Sultanpur Farmhouses. The remaining three puppies were kept under the foundation's care for their well-being.Upon arrival at the farmhouse, the three puppies received meticulous care and attention from the foundation staff. Measures were taken to ensure their health and safety, including regular monitoring, vaccinations, and proper nutrition. FEEDING POINTS FOR OUR FURRY FRIENDS

Angaja Foundation works hard for homeless animals. There are four feeding points where the stray dogs are fed: Gwal Pahari, Mandi, Wadia Farmhouse, and Mehra Farmhouse, all located ahead of Andheria Mode.Gwal Pahari is one of the famous localities in the eastern part of Gurgaon. In Gwal Pahari, near the police station, there are two stray dogs. There is a liquor shop where there is a stray dog. One more place in Gwal Pahari called Chara also has a stray dog. Angaja Foundation provides nutritious food, including chicken, rice, vegetables, and moong dal, to all of them. If they are sick or injured, they are immediately taken to the hospital.

Mandi is three kilometres from Jaunapur village. Mandi also has stray dogs. Our staffs provide them with protein-rich food every day.

Mehra Farmhouse has five stray dogs. Ms. Bal found that these stray dogs were being neglected. She requested the owner of Mehra Farmhouse to allow them to stay there, and assured that the Foundation would provide food and medical treatment. Every day, our staff provides nutritious food for them. Whenever they are sick or injured, they are immediately taken to hospital.

The sudden loss

There was an accident at our dog shelter. Suddenly, one of our wards, not yet an old dog, died on 15th of July 2023. Her name was Jyoti. Her death shocked us, because the dog showed no signs of illness or indisposition. What happened? We began to look for information about such cases and, of course, sought the advice of a veterinarian. We needed to understand the causes of what happened in order to save the rest of the dogs. The deceased dog showed no signs of illness or injury. She only had a bluish tongue and lips when shelter workers found her. We contacted the veterinarian Dr.Vijay from Sanjay Gandhi Veterinary Hospital and discussed what happened. Based on the information received from us, the doctor concluded that the dog died from a sudden heart attack. Sudden death in dogs can be a symptom of a heart attack. It occurs when the heart's ability to pump blood is severely compromised, leading to sudden collapse and death. This can happen with no warning signs, making it crucial to keep an eye on your dog's heart health and have regular checkups done by with a veterinarian. As heart attacks are very rare in dogs, most of the time if your dog experiences any of these symptoms, it will be due to a different health condition, sometimes even unrelated to the heart. It is very difficult to diagnose heart disease in animals, especially when there are no obvious signs of health problems.

A Sad Story

Ms. Raka Sinha got a call on 2/01/23 from Bheem Basti near the Angaja foundation shelter regarding Julie, who was a severely sick female dog. Our rescue team reached to Bheem Basti and found Julie's face was swollen so immediately our rescue team took her to the Pasha hospital where Julie was diagnosed with swollen popiteal lymph nodes and due to that most of the cells were deformed in the smear .This would lead to her death so it was obvious that she receive treatment right away.

Doctor treated her with antibiotics and painkillers. Julie was in extreme pain and gradually body organs started failing. If she had got treatment earlier she might have recovered. Julie lived in Bheem Basti and Ms. Sinha requested a lady living in Bheem Basti to give medicines to Julie. Ms. Sinha was daily keeping in touch regarding her treatment because Julie was the first case with lymph nodes disease. Day by day Julie was fighting for her life but unfortunately she lost the battle on 19/01/23.

Very Sad loss

Kalicharan has been living in the shelter for a long time. He came to the shelter with his sister when they were small puppies. Later, Kalicharan's sister disappeared. During many years he was a part of the shelter. This year shelter workers noticed that the dog scratches his ears very hard and reacts aggressively when trying to examine them. It was decided to send the animal to the Pasha clinic. On 13 th of May 2023, after the examination, the doctor said that parasitic worms were found in the ears of Kalicharan. The veterinarian cleaned and showed how to care for and treat the ears, and prescribed the necessary medicines. But unfortunately, the parasites returned again and again. They penetrated very deep into the ears. Over time it became impossible to get them out of there and eventually they reached the brain. And despite periodic visits to the veterinarian and the care taken by of the staff, he died on 01 of June 2023.

THANK YOU
