Supporting Slum Communities

Welcome to Report of Angaja Foundation for the Year 2024.
As we look back on our journey, we are filled with immense gratitude for our community, donors, and partners who make our grassroots mission possible every single day. At Angaja Foundation, our philosophy is rooted in holistic compassion, driven by the belief that a truly harmonious society must care for its most vulnerable people, its animals, and the environment alike.

Our operational model relies on active, on-the-ground interventions that create immediate relief while building long-term, sustainable change. This past year has been a testament to what dedicated collective action can achieve across our core pillars of action.

We also work deep within urban slum clusters to break the cycle of poverty through education, running active learning centres and remedial classes that give underprivileged children access to quality foundational schooling and safe spaces. Our Team conducts regular outreach in slums communities identifying families in need and connecting them with essential government schemes and welfare services.
We believe true development is impossible without gender equity, which is why Angaja Foundation actively champions women's empowerment through community workshops and high-visibility public rallies that advocate for social rights, legal literacy, and independence. While we celebrate these meaningful milestones, we remain keenly aware of the vast work that lies ahead. The progress we have made does not signal a time to rest, but rather provides a stronger foundation upon which we can reach more classrooms, and amplify our advocacy.

We extend our deepest thanks to our

Buddha Purnima Celebration at Geeta Colony Centre, Kishan Kunj

An engaging educational activity was organized at the Geeta Colony Centre,Kishan Kunj, to celebrate Buddha Purnima. The event aimed to enhance theknowledge and creative abilities of girls from different age groups by combining learning with artistic and writing activities. A total of 15 girls from the centre enthusiastically participated in the celebration.

The program began with an informative session on the significance of Buddha Purnima, during which the participants learned about the historical, cultural, and spiritual importance of the festival. The children were introduced to the life and teachings of Gautama Buddha, whose message of peace, compassion, and non-violence continues to inspire people around the world.

The facilitator explained that Gautama Buddha, originally named Siddhartha(Gautama), was born in 563 BC in Lumbini, near Kapilvastu in present-day Nepal.

His father, King Suddhodana, ruled the Shakya kingdom and wished for Siddhartha to succeed him. However, at the age of 29, Siddhartha renounced his royal life in search of truth and the path to ending human suffering. After years of meditation and ascetic practices, he attained enlightenment under the Bodhi Tree at Bodh Gaya on the day of Vaishakh Purnima. From that moment, he became known as the Buddha, meaning "the Enlightened One".

He spent the rest of his life spreading his teachings of compassion, wisdom, and the Middle Path before attaining Mahaparinirvana at Kushinagar in 483 BC. The children also learned that Buddha Purnima is one of the most sacred festivals in Buddhism and is celebrated across India and many other countries, with places such as Bodh Gaya beautifully decorated to mark the occasion.

Following the introductory session, the participants were divided into two groups based on their age and learning levels.
The younger girls were encouraged to express their understanding of Buddha Purnima through drawing and artwork. Using colors and their imagination, they created illustrations depicting Lord Buddha, the Bodhi Tree, and symbols associated with peace and enlightenment.
The older girls participated in a writing activity in which they wrote a few lines about Buddha Purnima and the life and teachings of Gautama Buddha. This exercise helped assess their understanding of the information shared during the session while encouraging them to reflect on the values of compassion, kindness and wisdom.

Gandhi Jayanti Awareness and Swachhta Abhiyan

On September 28 and 29, 2024, the coordinators of Angaja Foundation organized awareness sessions in the Sewa Nagar and Mansarovar Park slum communities to educate children about the significance of Gandhi Jayanti, celebrated annually on October 2. The day commemorates the birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi and is also observed worldwide as the International Day of Non-Violence. The children were introduced to the life and contributions of Mahatma Gandhi, widely known as the Father of the Nation. They learned about his leadership in India's freedom struggle, his unwavering commitment to truth and non-violence(Ahimsa), and his efforts to eradicate social evils such as untouchability, caste discrimination, and gender inequality. The coordinators also explained that Gandhi believed lasting social change could be achieved through peace,compassion, and collective responsibility rather than violence.

During the session, several of Mahatma Gandhi 's teachings were shared and discussed with the children. These included the importance of being the change one wishes to see in the world, practicing forgiveness, living in the present, learning through experience, remaining determined in the face of challenges, recognizing the goodness in others, maintaining harmony between thoughts, words, and actions, and embracing continuous personal growth. The children actively participated in the discussion and reflected on how these values could be applied in their daily lives.

The second part of the programme focused on awareness through a Swachhta Abhiyan (Cleanliness Drive) conducted in both communities. The children and coordinators participated in a garbage collection activity to promote the importance of maintaining clean surroundings.

The participants were educated about the harmful effects of improper waste disposal, including air and water pollution and the spread of diseases caused by accumulated garbage. They learned that maintaining cleanliness isessential not only for environmental conservation but also for protecting public health and improving the quality of life within their communities.The Gandhi Jayanti celebration successfully combined value-based education with community service. By introducing children to Mahatma Gandhi' s principles and involving them in the Swachhta Abhiyan, the programme encouraged responsibility, civic awareness, environmental consciousness, and respect for the ideals of peace, cleanliness, and social harmony. The enthusiastic participation of the children reflected the positive impact of the initiative and reinforced the importance of organizing similar awareness programmes in the future.

HELPING HANDS

Angaja Foundation is an active organization working for the welfare of animals in distress. The organization runs a shelter for the care and protection of dogs in Jaunapur, Delhi, located ahead of Andheria Mode. We rescue stray dogs from the streets, send them for sterilization, and bring animals in need to our shelter. They are cared for in a safe environment and provided with proper food, clean water, and medical treatment. There are around 50 dogs in the shelter. We also feed cows and maintain water troughs for cows and other animals. The Foundation takes sick dogs to Pasha Veterinary Clinic in Gurgaon for treatment, which is not far from the shelter. Citizens who find injured animals and birds also contact us for help.

Our coordinators have visited many dairy farms across Delhi and NCR to assess the condition of the farms and the cattle. Many dairies do not have adequate open space for animals and do not allow cattle to move freely without being tethered. Most dairies arrange weekly veterinary check-ups for the cattle. Although a few dairies were found to be unhygienic, the animals were generally provided with proper food and drinking water.

Angaja Foundation also visits Gaushalas to ensure that cows receive proper shelter, veterinary care, food, and water. More than 50 Gaushalas have been visited by the animal project coordinator. Most Gaushalas in Delhi do not receive government funding and are run privately with support from local communities, Temples, and income generated through the sale of milk and cow dung. Lack of space remains a major challenge for many private Gaushalas.We also visit stables across Delhi where horses used in weddings are kept to ensure that they receive proper food, good care, and regular health check-ups, and to confirm that they are not suffering from illness.

Honey's Journey Back to Life

In September, at around 2:00 a.m., Ms. Nina Bhardwaj received distress call about a six-year-old stray dog that had been severely injured in a road accident near Mother Dairy, Sector 31, Gurugram. Responding immediately, she rushed to the location and found the dog in critical condition, covered in blood and suffering from severe injuries.Without delay, Ms. Nina transported the injured dog to the nearest veterinary clinic for emergency medical attention. After a thorough examination, the veterinarian determined that the injuries were too severe to be treated at the clinic and recommended immediate transfer to a specialized hospital for advanced care.Determined to save the dog's life, Ms. Nina arranged for her transfer to CGS Hospital the following morning. Upon arrival, the veterinary team concluded that surgery was essential. However, due to the dog's critical condition, they advised postponing the operation until she was medically stable.Following the doctor's recommendation, the dog was shifted to Happy Paws, a rehabilitation centre, where she received intensive medical care, proper nutrition, and close monitoring for one week. During this period, her condition gradually improved, and she regained sufficient strength to undergo surgery. After a week of dedicated care, the medical team at CGS Hospital successfully performed the surgery.

The operation was a success, and Honey began showing encouraging signs of recovery. During this stage of her rehabilitation, Ms. Nina lovingly named her - " Honey" a name that reflected the compassion, care, and hope that had guided her journey toward recovery.As Honey's health continued to improve, Ms. Nina began searching for a permanent and caring home where she could continue to recover.

She approached Angaja Foundation and shared Honey's inspiring rescue story. After assessing Honey' s medical condition and learning about her remarkable journey, the Foundation welcomed her into its shelter, where she would receive continued care, affection, and a safe environment.

nutritious food, and a safe, comfortable environment where she could heal. The dedicated staff closely monitored her health and ensured that she received the attention and care needed to recover from her physical injuries and emotional trauma.

A New Puppy Family

On October 25, 2024, Dinesh Thapa, a security guard at the Angaja Foundation Shelter, made a significant discovery. He found that Radha, a stray dog under the shelter's care, had recently given birth to four puppies—two female puppies, Tina and Maria, and two male puppies, Varun and Anil.Radha had been living with her puppies on an abandoned farm located at 8 Rajico Lane, where the harsh and unsafe conditions posed a serious threat to their survival. Recognizing the risks faced by the mother and her newborn puppies, Thapa immediately informed the shelter team and requested assistance in relocating them to a safer environment.

After assessing the situation, the Angaja Foundation team decided that moving Radha and her puppies to the shelter was the best option to ensure their safety and well-being.

On October 27, 2024, Radha and her four puppies were safely rescued and brought to the Angaja Foundation Shelter. The relocation provided the family with a secure and nurturing environment away from the dangers of their previous surroundings. At the shelter, Radha and her puppies are receiving proper nutrition, regular medical care, and adequate space to grow and thrive.Thanks to Dinesh Thapa's timely intervention and the compassionate efforts of the Angaja Foundation team, Radha and her puppies have been given a new opportunity for a safe and healthy life. They are now protected from the hardships they previously faced and are growing in a caring environment filled with warmth, safety, and support.The story of Radha and her puppies reflects the importance of timely rescue efforts and the commitment of Angaja Foundation toward providing care, protection, and a better future for vulnerable animals.

Sita – A Heartwarming Tale

Sita, a three-month-old puppy, embarked on a remarkable journey from the industrial outskirts of Gurugram to the compassionate care of Angaja Foundation.

Her story reflects the importance of timely rescue, dedicated care, and the positive impact of providing vulnerable animals with a safe and loving environment. Sita was discovered near the busy industrial area of Udyog Vihar Phase-1, where she was found alone and vulnerable. As she appeared to be the only puppy in the area, concerns were raised about her safety and survival.

Immediate steps were taken to ensure her well-being. After being rescued, Sita was provided with nourishing milk and received a comforting meal of milk and roti in the evening. To protect her from potential dangers during the night, arrangements were made for her to stay under the watchful supervision of a security guard.On January 21, 2024, Sita took an important step toward a safer and brighter future when she was brought to the Angaja Foundation Animal Shelter. Upon arrival, she was introduced to a community of other dogs, beginning her journey of socialization and adaptation to her new surroundings.Since joining the shelter, Sita has shown remarkable improvement. Surrounded by care, affection, and the companionship of other animals, she has gradually become more comfortable and confident. The nurturing environment at the shelter has allowed her to grow and thrive.Sita's journey symbolizes hope, resilience, and the transformative power of compassion.

Oscar's Journey to Recovery

Oscar's journey is a story of resilience, compassion, and the transformative power of care. Throughout his life, Oscar faced several challenges, but the kindness and dedication of compassionate individuals helped him find safety, stability, and a loving environment.Oscar was initially adopted but was later abandoned on the streets by his owner. Fortunately, a kind-hearted woman named Charu found him and took immediate responsibility for his well being. At the time of rescue, Oscar was suffering from fever and other minor health issues. Charu ensured that he received proper medical treatment and the necessary care to recover.Following his recovery, Oscar underwent training and rehabilitation under Charu's supervision. With time, he regained his confidence and was eventually adopted by a family who welcomed him into their home. Charu hoped that the family would provide Oscar with the love, care, and attention he needed, while the presence of other dogs in the household would help him socialize.

However, Oscar faced difficulties adjusting to his new surroundings. Having become accustomed to the freedom and routine he experienced while living with Charu, he found it challenging to adapt to the restrictions of a new home. Theunfamiliar environment, new voices, and busy household atmosphere caused him stress and contributed to behavioral difficulties.

Despite the family's efforts to help Oscar settle in, he struggled to respond positively to the affection shown by the family's daughter, which eventually led to an unfortunate incident. Recognizing that they were unable to provide Oscar with the environment herequired, the family decided to return him to Charu's care.Once again under Charu's guidance, Oscar was brought to the Angaja Foundation Shelter on January 19, 2024. At the shelter, he received proper nutrition, medical attention, and a safe and supportive environment.

SWEET SWEET PUPPIES

On March 14, 2024, Angaja Foundation received a call from Ms. Jasmine, who reported that a stray dog near Sultanpur Farmhouse had given birth to sixpuppies. Sadly, one of the puppies had died in a road accident, raising serious concerns about the safety of the remaining puppies due to their proximity to heavy vehicular traffic. Responding promptly, the staff of Angaja Foundation rescued the surviving puppies and brought them to the Foundation's shelter to ensure their safety and provide them with proper care.Shortly after the rescue,Ms. Jasmine informed the Foundation that the mother dog was showing signs of distress after being separated from her puppies. Understanding the emotional bond between a mother and her young, the Foundation decided to reunite one of the puppies with its mother while continuing to care for the remaining four puppies at the shelter.

Upon arrival at the shelter, the rescued puppies received care and attention from the Foundation's staff. Their health and well-being were prioritized through regular monitoring, timely vaccinations, proper nutrition, and a clean, secure environment. The Foundation's dedicated efforts were aimed at protecting the puppies from illness, ensuring healthy growth, and preparing them for a better future.The rescue also highlighted the emotional intelligence and strong social bonds shared by the animals.

The mother's distress following the loss of one puppy and separation from the others demonstrated the depth of maternal attachment often overlooked in discussions on animal welfare. The decision to reunite one puppy with its mother reflected Angaja Foundation' s compassionate and thoughtful approach to animal rescue, recognizing not only the animal physical needs but also their emotional well-being.

During the rehabilitation process, one of the rescued puppies, Sheela, managed to escape through a small gap in the shelter's boundary. Although unfortunate, this incident emphasized the importance of maintaining secure infrastructure and continuously improving shelter facilities. It served as a valuable reminder that rescue organizations must remain vigilant in ensuring the safety and protection of vulnerable animals under their care.The incident has also reinforced the need for long-term, sustainable solutions to address the growing stray animal population.

Angaja Foundation stronglyadvocates for the sterilization of stray dogs as a humane and effective means of controlling their population. Sterilization helps reduce the number of animals born into unsafe conditions, minimizes their exposure to hunger, disease, and road accidents, and lessens the burden on animal shelters. It is a compassionate and sustainable approach that improves the quality of life for stray animals.

THANK YOU
